

Workshop Information Sheet

Explore the possibilities of paper shoes, slippers and stockings...

A paper manipulation workshop with Rachel Zimmermann

The shoe as an object is steeped in tradition, shaped by culture and in the 20 century reflective of cutting edge design and technology. It is an object that has represented important stages of history, been adapted by different cultural groups to reflect ideologies and finally been modified from a functional object to a decorative embellishment.

In this practical workshop, participants will explore, through diverse sampling the process of paper manipulation. Techniques such as folding, scoring, stitching, darting and clipping. Participants will be taught how to manipulate the pattern pieces provided and embellish paper to create a series of shoe, slipper and stocking samples; from polka dot pumps to simple flip flops, from Arabian slippers to delicately stitched stockings.
